

5. CV - FORM OF A CV.mov

Speaker1: [00:00:08] The fourth point is the form of this CV and what it tells us about the personality of the candidate, given that the candidate has actually written their own CV. I want to just double check this point first. If the candidate has written their own CV, there's a lot that we can ascertain about their personality. Firstly, is that individual detail oriented or conceptual? Are they results oriented or organic in their approach to their goals? Are they a systematic, linear thinker or an abstract thinker? Are they a revenue generator or a cost center? Do they have a focused career path or an exploratory career path? Are they long winded and descriptive or succinct and to the point? Do they have a sense of urgency or a relaxed operating style? Are they an effective communicator or an ineffective communicator? Are they secure and comfortable in their own skin, or are they insecure and maybe suffer from an inferiority complex?
